Place $116,835 Value on Airport Land

3 APPRAISERS FILE DATA ON FARM SURVEY

Estimates $16,000 Higher Than Earlier Prediction of Acreage Cost.

COUNCIL TO GET REPORT

Financing Program Expected To Be Sent Councilmen For Study Next Tuesday.

City officials were told today that the approximately 900 acres of land the city wants for its airport expansion project is worth $116,835.

That was the appraisal report of three Mansfield realtors who have been examining the properties and conferring with owners for the past two weeks.

The amount is at least $16,000 more than the city had estimated it would have to pay for the land, but it was pointed out by Mayor W. J. Locke that some of the property included in the $116,835 figure may not be needed for airport purposes and will have some salvage value, possibly reducing the final cost to near $100,000.

In two cases, the mayor said, the appraisal board recommended the purchase of entire farms although the airport will occupy only a part of them. The owners, appraisers said, objected to selling a part of their farms. In these instances, the city should be able to sell the land it doesn't need and reduce the over-all cost, Mayor Locke said.

While the land appraisal completed by the trio of realtors doesn't mean that the city will have to pay that amount for the 900 acres at the airport, the cost estimate gives city officials a basis on which to negotiate with the owners of the 19 parcels in the area.

Mayor Locke, Service-Safety Director Fred B. Wolff, and City Engineer W. C. Statler were authorized by council to negotiate for purchase of the land or employ negotiators. The mayor named the three appraisers, W. C. Mansfield, Edward A. Schmitt, and Marion Shaull.

HITS PROGRAM

Industrialist Calls 16-Point Butter Cost 'Ineffective.'

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Rationing of butter under a separate program was advocated by a leader of the industry today as the only way to assure fair distribution.

Criticizing as ineffective the Office of Price Administration's new increase of the butter ration cost to 16 points, John Brandt of Minneapolis asserted in an interview that "no matter how many points are charged, there will be unjust shortages in some areas as long as butter is lumped under the same program with meats and other commodities."

You're Welcome, Ashland, We Were Glad to Help Out

Mansfield's fire department today received the thanks of the Ashland city officials and fire chief for helping to save the Ashland industrial district in the disastrous fire last Friday night.

With their thanks for Mansfield's co-operation, the Ashland mayor, fire chief, and civilian defense chairman offered to assist Mansfield whenever the city needs help during a major fire or disaster.

Acting Fire Chief L. R. Zimmerman and two of his men took Mansfield's new fire pumper to Ashland Friday night when they learned that the fire there, resulting from derailment of an Erie freight train, was out of control. The Mansfield firemen remained all night and were credited with keeping a number of the tank cars of oil from exploding and causing further spread of the blaze.

Both Mayor W. J. Locke and Zimmerman received letters today from Mayor Glenn B. Haller and Fire Chief Paul Soles of Ashland, and Zimmerman had a second "thank you" letter from Karl K. Kick, chairman of the Ashland council of defense.

"We certainly would have been out of luck if we had been forced to work with fire fighters who lacked the experience and initiative that you had," Chief Soles wrote Zimmerman.

NEW YORK — (INS) — Jack Benny, stage, screen and radio comedian returned to New York today following a tour of U. S. army camps overseas.

Inmates Proudly Watch 'NS' Flag Go Up at Reformatory

Laughingly admitting that they worked under different "circumstances" than civilians, 1,200 inmates of Ohio State Reformatory saw the War Production Board's "National Service" emblem raised on a flagstaff yesterday, and then agreed to "keep on keeping on."

The fact that they laughed didn't detract one bit from their pride in their achievement, for which they were generously praised by speakers on the program.

Rather, it seemed to indicate the kind of spirit with which they set the record that won them the pennant.

The whole program was a little different than similar ones — Army-Navy "E" awards — are in civilian life.

Perhaps it was the short address of acceptance by Andrew Dulay, an inmate chosen by his fellows for that task — and the cheer it brought — that keynoted the entire program.

"We're proud of this award," Dulay said. "That's only human. Perhaps we're a little prouder because circumstances peculiar to our present mode of living won't let us do all we'd like to."

That remark brought a chuckle that grew into a laugh—and then into a spontaneous outburst of applause from the inmate body as well as the guests seated on the platform. Dulay laughed, too.

Then, he continued:

"But we'll keep on keeping on!"

Then he and two other inmates, also chosen by their comrades inside the big gray walls, fastened the pennant to the staff on the chapel platform.

The other two were James Writesel and Robert Johnson.

That was toward the close of the program. The ceremony began as Supt. Arthur L. Glattke introduced

Era of Prosperity After War Predicted by Leaders In U. S.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Industrial, labor and newspaper leaders who attended the war department's "Victory Mobilization" conference in Washington predicted today that the United States would have a generation of prosperity after the war with "jeeps for sale" signs in the windows of now-empty automobile salesrooms.

"If we all work together," said Ward Canaday, the Toledo maker of jeeps, "prosperity is ahead of this country for at least a generation after the war ends."

The war department's two day meeting, attended by more than 200 of the nation's outstanding industrialists, labor leaders and newspaper editors, ended late yesterday with the army putting on an impressive demonstration of a landing operation under simulated battle conditions at nearby Fort Belvoir, Va.

Prior to that, War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes and Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson warned that the "roads to Berlin and Tokyo are still long, hard and bloody."

Many of those attending the conclave were frankly more interested in postwar industrial mo-

ARMY TO MOVE INTO NYA CAMP

Mifflin Center To Be Used as Training Camp; 200 To Be Quartered There.

The army started taking over the National Youth Administration camp at nearby Mifflin today.

Workshops, buildings, equipment and barracks used by NYA until congress ordered suspension of the program last July, will become a branch of Camp Millard, army railroad engineering camp at Bucyrus.

Military officials estimated today that nearly 200 men will be quartered at Mifflin, moving in within the next few days. More than that may be stationed there later.

They explained the camp will be used as a preliminary training center. Soldiers will receive technical instruction there and will later be transferred to Bucyrus for further training in railway engineering.

Workmen were busy at the camp today making final preparations for its opening. Camp Millard authorities said it was hoped soldiers could be moved in within "the next two or three days."

The Mansfield board of education earlier had requested that the NYA shop equipment be given to Mansfield schools. Supt. W. L. Miller said today that when advised that the camp was to be used for army purposes, the request for the equipment was withdrawn.

Lad Near Death Needs 'AB' Blood —Can You Help?

There's a little boy in General hospital tonight who may die unless someone gives him some blood—the rarest of all blood—known as Type AB.

The supply of Type AB blood at General hospital has been exhausted. His relatives have been making a frantic search for persons with Type AB. They haven't been successful.

It is for this reason that a public appeal was voiced through the News-Journal this afternoon for persons with Type AB to telephone the laboratory at General hospital as soon as possible. Only those KNOWING they have Type AB should call. The telephone number is 4271-6.

There are at least 600 persons in Richland county who know the type of blood they have. On the first two visits of the Red Cross blood donor unit last year, donors then were advised of their blood classification.

The little boy who needs the blood supply is Frank Militello, 14, suffering with a serious internal ailment.

Frank had his first transfusion last Saturday from his brother, William, 17. William was

Little Old Lady Gives $2,000 for Lonely Soldiers

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Four hundred soldiers in all sorts of out of the way places will receive Christmas boxes from an unidentified little old lady in blue gingham dress.

"I want to buy a Christmas present for a few of the boys overseas who would not get one otherwise boys in the most remote and lonesome places," she told the Washington Post

A trembling hand held out a certified check for $1,000.

"I only wish I knew how long I will live. I am 76 now. I think I will ask my banker what to do," she said on her return the next day by appointment. In about an hour she was back again with a second check for $1,000

Army chaplains helped select the gifts but the little old lady insisted upon a frivolous item or two, "soap that smells nice or violet talcum powder"

Then, too, she wanted to help wrap the packages. The Post asked permission to use her name and take her picture but she declined.

"I like it better this way," she said.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Sen. Sheridan Downey, D., Calif., asserted in the senate today that Germany could be bombed out of the war "in four months." He spoke in support of a bill by Sen. Wheeler, to defer the drafting of fathers until Jan. 1.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Unwilling to block the draft of fathers for military service, congress nevertheless showed increasing interest in holding the impact on families to a minimum.

General induction of fathers starts Friday.

In the senate, there were growing demands for selective service officials to re-canvass the federal payroll. Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) charged that the administration had failed to drive "draft dodgers and slackers" from the government and war industry payrolls. Senator Bailey (D-N.C.) said "the people feel that government payrolls include a great many young men who ought to be at the battlefronts."

When Wheeler opened his now losing fight to postpone induction of family heads, he contended there were 300,000 men in government service eligible for the uniform.

The house, meantime, took up the question of improving the financial lot of those fathers who are drafted. Chairman May (D-Ky.) called hearings on legislation to boost the family allowances of men with dependent wives and children. Committee members said they ex-

Americans Also Enter Pompeii as They Rout Germans From Last Mountain Strongholds; British Chasing Nazis Beyond Foggia.

BULLETIN

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA—(AP)—News of an Allied entry into Naples is expected any moment.

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa—The Fifth army has driven the Germans from their last mountain positions above Salerno and is pursuing the enemy on the plain within 15 miles of Naples, the fall of which appeared today to be imminent.

The Germans, routed out of the mountain strongholds in six days of heavy fighting, were in general retreat, leaving the Allies in complete possession of the Sorrento peninsula, which separates the Bay of Naples from the Gulf of Salerno.

American and British troops of Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark began the final attack on the enemy's extremely strong mountain positions at dawn yesterday and by noon had captured Nocera, vital road center at the beginning of the coastal plain leading to Naples.

Castellammare, important naval base on the southern shore of the Bay of Naples, also fell quickly into Allied hands as the Germans withdrew in a flight that may not cease until they reach the River Ventura line, well north of Naples.

(In London, the authoritative British Press association said it had learned that Fifth army forces had entered historic Pompei at the foot of smoking Vesuvius and only 13 airline miles from the heart of Naples.)

The breakthrough on the extreme western end of the front extending across Italy from coast to coast was accompanied by a general advance on the entire Fifth and Eighth army line.

American troops on the Fifth army's right flank smashed their way six miles northward against crumbling enemy opposition and were within seven miles of Avellino, road and rail junction which is the key to inland communications east of Naples.

The capture of Avellino would constitute a threat to any German effort to make a new stand anywhere east of south of Naples.

The British Eighth army meanwhile wiped out the deep salient on its western flank, previously reported, and established a straight line between San Angelo and Malfi, while along the Adriatic Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's forces stormed northward from Margherita Di Savoia and occupied the town of Zappanetta on the Gulf of Manfredonia, due east of the great Foggia air base.

British troops on the extreme southwest end of the Allied front began the final shove against the enemy in the mountain line north and northwest of Salerno and encountered the bitterest kind of fighting at the town of Sala which already had changed hands many times in recent weeks of the furious struggle.

This time Clark's troops seized it for keeps and swept on triumphantly. The Germans, realizing that any further attempt to make a stand in that area was futile, began to retreat.

Reports from the front emphasized that the enemy's withdrawal was orderly and there was no suggestion that the Allies were taking any large numbers of prisoners.

The Germans appeared to have realized far ahead of time that they must ultimately yield before the sledgehammer blows and accordingly made plans well in advance for a swift retreat.

On the Eighth army front a military spokesman reported that German parachute troops who were captured complained bitterly that their only job had been to fight a rearguard action. One said that only 17 men

CRUSHING: Russian Dnieper Drive Smashes Nazi Toeholds

(By United Press)

MOSCOW—The Russian drive along a 400-mile stretch of the upper and middle Dnieper today mounted in scale and violence as Red army assault forces swiftly liquidated the last German toeholds on the east bank of the river.

Massed Russian guns lobbed shells across the Dnieper, softening the German fortifications, and hundreds of Red air force planes bombed and gunned the hard-pressed Nazis as they fled over the river filled with the bodies of their comrades.

To the north, Russian forces poured into White Russia at dozens of points, blasting their way across rivers, swamps, and forests toward Gomel, Orsha, Mogilev and Vitebsk.

In the region of Kiev, they menaced the German base anchoring the whole defense line east of the Bug and Dniester rivers. Near Kremenchug to the southeast and Dnepropetrovsk on the big bend of the river the Germans still were clinging desperately to fast shrinking holds on the east bank of the Dnieper.

The government newspaper Izvestia said there still was an abundance of German armor, self propelled guns and infantry in those areas. The Nazis were reported trying to counter-attack as many as 12 times in a day, with the support of planes striking in waves of 20 to 30.

Red Star, the army organ, said Soviet mobile units dashing on ahead of the main assault forces slashed into the German positions

WRECKED: Wewak Littered by Debris of 7 Ships, 58 Planes

(By United Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, SOUTHWEST PACIFIC—More than 200 Allied warplanes virtually wrecked the big Japanese air and sea base at Wewak, New Guinea, destroying 58 and probably 61 enemy aircraft and seven vessels out of a newly-arrived supply convoy in the harbor, a communique revealed today. Another Allied victory appeared near 350 miles to the southeast where Australian riflemen and artillery were hammering at the Japanese-held seaport of Finschhafen and piling up heavy casualties among the trapped enemy garrison.

The enemy battled desperately from foxholes and machine-gun nests along the western and northern approaches to the port and Japanese planes struck at the Allied rear lines, but casualties were described as relatively light.

The raid on Wewak, one of the heaviest of the New Guinea campaign, caught the Japanese ground and aid defenses by surprise.

Two formations of Liberators swept in over the base at high altitude early Monday and pounded two of the four Wewak airfields with explosives and incendiaries that drove the Japanese anti-aircraft gunners to cover and left the fields littered with burning enemy planes.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

TAKING YOUR PREFERENCE

Which would you rather do—play a hand in such a way that you are sure to be set one, or try a practically even chance which will either make your contract or cause you to be set two? The answer to this question has nothing to do with your gameness. It is pure common sense to make the try, if it is a game contract or not, as the value of a part-score makes you stand to gain more by success than you would lose by failure. That is so even if you are vulnerable, in rubber bridge. In duplicate match point play, the chance usually should be at least even for you to try it.

	♠ A 7 6 2 ♥ A 4 ♦ 6 5 4 ♣ Q 10 5 3
♠ J 8 3 ♥ K Q J 6 ♦ Q 10 ♣ J 9 7 2	N W E S	♠ 9 ♥ 8 7 3 2 ♦ K J 8 3 2 ♣ A 8 6
	♠ K Q 10 5 4 ♥ 10 9 5 ♦ A 9 7 ♣ K 4

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

It was easy to play this hand for down one, after West led the heart K to the A. But doing that would have been silly bridge in rubber play, when there was a simple chance for the game. Yet just such things are plays which you see missed every day.

The declarer took three top spades, then led the club K from his own hand. After East played low on this he led the club 4 to the Q, which the A killed. There was now no way at all for South to keep from losing two tricks in diamonds and a trick in hearts.

Nothing was needed but a simple finesse of the club 10 on the second round, in the hope that West had the J. You can be virtually sure he has not the A, as if he held it up on the K lead, certainly he would not repeat that on the second club lead. The sole reasonable chance was to have the 10 force the A, so that then the Q would furnish a discard of one of the two losing diamonds. South, however, played it the other way, and was set. His explanation for the Q play was that he thought West was holding up the A, which he was very unlikely to do. Even if he was doing it, the 10 was still a good chance.

Tomorrow's Problem.

Pitfalls of Love

(A sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

There was such stern, unswerving determination in Harry Underwood's face as he strode to the door, that my father and I accepted his ultimatum without further protest. But Dicky followed him out, pausing only for a hasty parting word to my father after he had bent down and given me a wordless message in a tender kiss.

"I take it, sir, you do not need me for awhile," he said. "You will have plenty of guards at Hal Meredith's office to protect Madge, and carry out your plan to remove Ruth Hayes from the composite picture. I know you agree with me that my presence would only infuriate the lady needlessly."

Spencer Agrees.

"Yes," my father agreed a bit grimly. "I think you very well can rest on your laurels of the early hours of this morning. We shall not need you, and I will take good care of Margaret. Also—do all you can in that direction."

His voice almost inaudible, he gestured toward Harry's retreating figure.

"Everything I can, but don't count on it," Dicky murmured in reply, and then the door closed behind him, and my father and I were left facing each other.

"So he's really going!" I said dully. "Whatever will I say to Lillian?"

"I know," my father said, with sympathy vibrant in his voice "It's going to be hard for you—terrible for Lillian. But I shall put off the evil day as far as possible. Because of this new decision of Harry's, I shall not send for Lillian for another two days. It is outside the bounds of possibility that the conspirators will bring Marion again to that restaurant before that time."

I caught my breath in relief at the respite, for I knew that next to facing a terrible emergency for my children, for Dicky or for my father, I dreaded having to tell Lillian that Harry had at last gone to meet unknown and sinister danger in order to aid her idolized daughter, who was as dear to him as if she were his own child instead of his stepdaughter.

"And now," my father said briskly, "we will forget this angle of our problem for a while, and concentrate on the thing directly in front of us. You are all ready to start for Hal Meredith's office?"

"Just give me time to put on my hat and coat," I answered smiling.

"I'll do that," he said, "for I have to leave a few last-minute instructions with Winters who will come into this suite and stay here while we are gone, ready to answer all telephones discreetly, and in code, if necessary. Thus, he will be able to keep track of the machinery I have set in motion for the restaurant campaign. I also have to start Adams on his way to Hal's office. Three husky lads are waiting for him down the street, and they will go in the rear entrance of Meredith's apartment and wait there, concealed, until time to bring them out, if necessary."

Four Men Needed.

"If necessary," I repeated wonderingly. "You mean you will need four men to subdue Ruth Hayes?"

"If," my father said soberly, "she brings with her, or has within her call, the two gangsters who came with her to the hotel in the early hours of this morning, four men will be needed, because we will wish to do a thorough job without undue publicity."

There was something in his voice, quiet, menacing which told me that if everything went as my father evidently had planned it, the elimination of the "wilderness woman" from Katharine's life, and the total destruction of any and she was giving the conspirators searching for Jack Bickett and his cryptograms, would be complete before the afternoon should wane.

"I'll be back in a minute," he said, and went through the camouflaged door into the communicating suite, while I hurriedly donned my hat and coat pulled on my gloves and caught up my bag. When he returned with Winters close behind him I was already at the outer door.

He gave me a nod of approval, and then crossed to me his hat and gloves in his hand, turning at the door for a last word with Winters.

"You know what to do," he said. "And if Milner should come here, tell him I asked you to stay in this suite until our return, but you do not know why."

"Okay," Winters said. "I'll attend to everything."

"He's what Richard would term a 'stout fellah,'" my father said when he had closed the door. "And now, we only have one problem."

I looked the inquiry I did not wish to voice, and he answered my look.

"That is to get to Meredith's office before Ruth Hayes shows up there," he said.

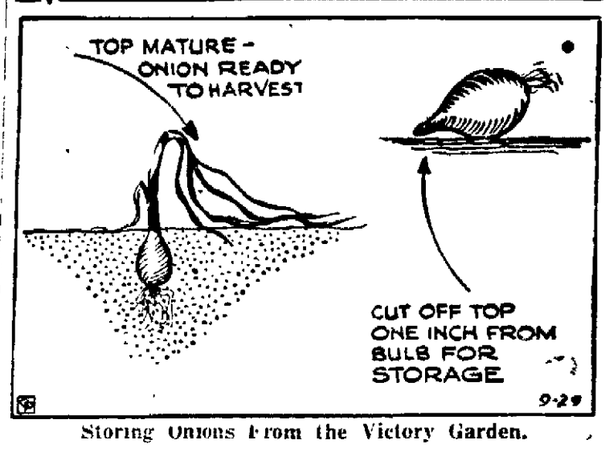
Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH



Storing Onions From the Victory Garden.

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Ass'n.

Since onions are used in the kitchen more than any other vegetable, except, perhaps, potatoes, it is important that this crop from the Victory garden be stored correctly for winter use.

The "thick neck" or "bottle neck" onions do not keep well and therefore should not be stored, but kept handy and used before the other types. Ebenezer and the Sweet Spanish have good keeping qualities.

To keep well in storage onions must be mature and thoroughly dry. When the tops of onions are thoroughly mature as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph they can be harvested. Then when the tops are thoroughly dry cut them off about one inch above the bulb, as illustrated.

Onions can be stored in ventilated baskets, crates or loosely woven burlap bags. Good ventilation is most essential for the successful storage of onions. A dry well-ventilated place such as an attic makes a good storage space. Slight freezing does not injure onions provided they are not handled while frozen.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, Sept. 30.

Initiative, enterprise, push and concentrated marshalling of the forces and faculties should move affairs, both business and private into the realm of a "new high" in the way of achievement and enduring stability of resources and opportunity, for reaching cherished goals. This bold and clever effort toward important objectives, probably in new fields of endeavor, must be sustained by clear thinking, sound constructive ability, and progressive ideals. Similar conditions apply to the social, affectional and emotional life and its successful and happy fruitions.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be on the threshold of a year of splendid opportunity, for doing large things in a "big way," with enterprise, initiative, and the creative forces and mental faculties all under high stimuli for outstanding productiveness and progress. Especially are new and bold ventures encouraged, with practical ways and means at hand although possibly menaced by some sort of sordid or treacherous temptations. Keen insight, aggressiveness and straightforwardness win, in the end. Financial, domestic and romantic affiliations should also be pushed to gratifying objectives, although with restraint.

A child born on this day may be aggressive, energetic, have much constructive ability, assuring decisive success, although it may be subject to erratic emotional urges or some form of excess or extravagance with funds or energies.

Seaweeds are used in camouflage devised by the U. S. armed forces.

TELEPHONE 4251-6

IN THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

WASHINGTON—One of the thankless tasks in wartime Washington is to fight the battle for what the civilian needs.

Although rarely recognized as such, certain civilian goods are actually a part of our war needs. We stopped making alarm clocks but were compelled to resume because war-workers needed help to get up on time for work.

Yet it is difficult, naturally, to convince the army and navy of the necessity for certain kinds of civilian production. War Production Board officials are concerned now lest the opposition of the military services prevent adequate civilian production.

Clapper

When the question of providing 900,000 refrigerators next year is raised, it looks like a plea for luxury goods, or a scheme for manufacturers to get in early for postwar trade, or overoptimism about the end of the war. Manufacture of those refrigerators requires facilities that otherwise would be used for direct war production.

But what if there are not refrigerators? The Federal Housing Administration reports that publicly-financed war housing is now being completed at the rate of 1000 dwellings a day. Few war-expanded communities have enough ice men. Unless refrigerators can be obtained, families will have spoiled food, hence illness. The War Production Board has a committee of physicians studying some of those problems to ascertain the effect on war production.

In the Baruch report on west coast manpower the loss in production of heavy bombers is attributed in part to labor turnover reaching in some plants as much as 100 per cent a year. To check that the report urged better housing and living conditions for aircraft workers.

This is not a matter of restoring luxuries, and of allowing the return of the chocolate candy bar, and the chocolate icing on the cake. This is a matter of living conditions that permit a war worker to put in a full day's work. Repairs for the electric iron, or a new electric iron, may save lost time at the plant. Or so the War Production Board believes in fixing the essential needs for 3,000,000 electric irons next year.

Food, transportation, utilities, and civilian products such as washing machines and shoes, necessary to efficient living are all part of the means by which the supply of heavy bombers can be kept at peak flow. The heavy bombers that were lost in production last summer would have been enough for a first class mission into Germany.

We have most basic materials to permit additional production of civilian essentials. Although plant facilities are less easily found, war production schedules are being revised constantly. Excessive supplies have been produced and output has been curtailed in some items. Inventions change production schedules, and the rocket weapons may cause drastic revision of artillery production. So demands on some production facilities are reduced while they are increased on others.

In that process of continuous readjustment, a place should be made for those few essential civilian items which are not luxuries but are the necessities of daily living for the war worker. That kind of production is the seed corn of war production. If your war worker is not on the job in condition to work, then the object of all war production effort has been defeated before a wheel has turned.

What needs to be guarded against is the manufacturer who is looking for a way to get started on postwar production, or the one who wishes to take advantage of a starved market. And attention must be given to the clogging of distribution channels, the hoarding in some areas, the snatch buying that leaves new war-boom towns short of goods while older backwash communities get their full stocks as usual

As military authorities warn us, both publicly and off the record, this is no time to loosen up as if expecting the war soon to be over. Concessions made for civilian production can properly be made only where necessary to maintain productive efficiency of war manpower. But some WPB officials fear that not sufficient provision is being made for that and they find it difficult to win support for civilian needs.

SOLDIERS MAD AT CENSORS' ROSY STORIES

Sen. Lodge Says More Frankness Would Prevent Lack of Confidence.

(By Associated Press)

PEARL HARBOR — Greater frankness in war news presentation today will prevent cynicism and lack of confidence in our leaders later, U. S. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., (R-Mass) said in an exclusive interview after war front visits where "I saw the reaction of our fighting men to habitually optimistic news reports."

He will report to congress that "our fighting men" are mad because of the false optimism of our news."

"It's a general condition of our news reporting," our communiques, our radio commentators and our desk writers," he said.

He noted that censors perhaps overlook the fact that, unlike the last war, the news they censor gets back by radio within 24 hours to the men who make the news, who are wounded and who have fallen comrades.

"Our present news censorship as I saw it at the front enrages and disillusions our fighting men in the truthfulness of their leaders and at home it breeds apathy" Senator Lodge said.

"Whom our rosy censorship and propaganda helps I do not know. If anything, it helps the enemy by getting us to underestimate him. Our fighting men rapidly are learning that our propaganda which makes all our allies good and all our enemies bad is bunk."

He told of seeing American soldiers befriend Italian and German prisoners but said no such camaraderie exists in the Pacific.

"Our fight with the Japs is a fight to the finish," he said.

"The Japs made it that way. They tortured our prisoners, shot down our parachutists, executed our Doolittle fliers in cold blood and our litter bearers are their favorite targets.

"These truths of the Japs should be driven home, too."

Senator Lodge asked the writer (who was a war correspondent in the Aleutians) the reaction of American soldiers to news they received while driving the Japanese from Attu. I told him an official announcement came over the radio that the enemy was defeated, except for mopping up, in the first week whereas actually the main fighting had not commenced and many of our men already had been killed.

"It's that way everywhere," Senator Lodge said.

FAIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK—For sale, cheap.
One full dress suit, a beaut, with manly shoulders and a flare
About the hips, to make you look like Fred Astaire.
The suit is of that modish, midnight blue
And there are several hook-on ties, like new.
The pumps go with it and a little more
Will fetch the studs and socks galore.
The hat as well, is offered. Not a top.
However, but a real good 1940 plop.
The whole ensemble worn no more than four times
But owner has no use for same in war times.
Consider trade, say due-bill on a fair hotel.
Must sacrifice, however, either swap or sell.
Dress suit, fully equipped, dark blue.
Outstanding opportunity for cash, or what have you?
Owner would liquidate one cocktail wagon.
Rubber tires, various glasses, antique flagon,

* * *

Brightly decorated in a quaint design
With words and music of Sweet Adeline.
Fine chance to pick up numerous trays, assorted, cocktail
Shakers, muddlers, ice tongs, some imported.
Champagne bucket, somewhat used, but flawless,
Souvenir of days when we were lawless.
Fine condition, some good pre, some post, repeal.
My loss your gain; no bargain—but a steal.
Owner, at a sickening loss would sell.
Or trade, four butler's jackets, chauffeur's cap as well.
Socially retrenching for, at least, duration.
Due to taxes, wages, manpower situation.
Also welcome offers for a stable, complete with tackle and a poker table,
Mah-jongg outfit, bird cage, two-bit slot machine.
To be appreciated, these things must be seen.
Set of one-quart silver flasks, gin, Scotch and rye
Of an elegance that today you couldn't buy.

* * *

Frankly, owner gloomy but he hopes,
The human race is not plumb out of dopes.
For anyone liking silly coats and pants.
Owner, closing out, presents rare chance.
Semi-country, semi-yachting stuff.
Linen, stylish gabardine and tweedy rough.
Monkey jackets with that debonair
Insouciance for Florida night-club wear.
Green dinner jacket, purple flowers and tie,
The things that every sucker used to buy.
Made by the most expensive tailors, little worn,
No single garment threadbare, stained or torn.
Owner forced to change his way of living
And sale, in this case, really more like giving.
Consider any offer, even trade
For overalls and jumper, stoutly made.
Owner closing out, would frankly say
He wonders how he ever got that way.

BRICKER, GREEN HIT SOCIALISM

Governors Call For Return of Private Enterprise, End of U. S. Regulation.

(By Associated Press)

BUFFALO, N. Y. — Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio demands the "recapture of the spirit of private enterprise" and Gov. Dwight H. Greene of Illinois insists the government "must withdraw from regulation of our economic system in the post-war world."

They spoke last night at a dinner of the supreme council, 33rd degree Masons, Ancient Accept Scottish Rite, northern Masonic jurisdiction. Bricker is a council member. Greene will receive the 33rd degree tonight.

Bricer, prominently mentioned as a possible candidate for the 1944 Republican presidential nomination, declared:

"Our government can only reflect the aims, attitudes and good judgment, ultimately, of the great bulk of its citizenship. The development of that attitude is the responsibility of the churches, homes, local communities, lodges and societies of every sort. xxx"

In the post-war rehabilitation period, he continued, "it will be necessary to recapture the spirit of private enterprise. That means a foundation of sound tax legislation to provide for venture money and private jobs in industry, business and agriculture. xxx"

Greene asserted "the main issue in America today xxx is between centralization, totalitarianism, state socialism—call it what you will—and free representative American government in which the will of the people is law under their constitution."

The rapidly coloring leaves in the Mansfield area are proving again that it's not frost alone that makes the leaves turn red and yellow. While the county area has had two or three light frosts this fall, none of them was severe enough to kill vegetation or to have any effect on the tree leaves. Naturalists contend that it's a ripening process brought about by a warm late summer and early fall, that's responsible for the colorful trees in the woodlots and along city streets. The show this fall promises to be one of the best in a long time.

POWER FAILS AT COLUMBUS

War Production, Transportation Interrupted For Hour as Lights Go Out In Homes.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — A power failure, reported by the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric company to be in its Walnut station, today cut off electric power for more than an hour to Columbus and sections of Franklin county, interrupting transportation service and production at war plants.

Company officials said the power failure occurred at the Pickaway generators and that when the load was switched to the smaller Walnut plant, services at both stations failed.

Thousands of Columbus war workers were unable to get to their jobs on time when electric buses stalled and lined the streets.

Street and house lights were out for more than 45 minutes, but lighted again when partial alternating current power was restored.

However, direct current power, which supplies newspapers, war plants and public utilities was not furnished for more than an hour after the failure occurred at 6:16 a. m. (EST). Service was resumed at 7:41 a. m. (EST.)

The majority of hospitals reported that normal service was continued by switching on their emergency power plants.

But war plants in the Columbus area—including the Timken Roller Bearing plant and the sprawling Curtiss-Wright Warplane factory—reported lights and power were out for more than 45 minutes.

"What kind of a team is this St. Benedictine from Cleveland that opens our home season?" Mansfield Tyger fans have been asking.

Until last Saturday no one knew the answer. Then Benedictine supplied the dope through a good showing against a perennially strong Cleveland Cathedral Latin.

The score was 27-6 in favor of Latin, but at the half it was only 13-6, and the one touchdown margin was the result of a momentary defensive lapse which let a Latin back get away for an 80-yard scoring punt return.

Coaches Paul Snyder and Vern Hoffman of the Tygers scouted the Benedictine-Latin game.

And they report that Benedictine has a big team, and a scrappy team. Latin just had better organization, and made use of it in the second half scoring.

"This Kotrany at left half is one of the best backs I've seen this year," Snyder reports, "and Budati at quarter is also plenty good.

"And Kniola at left end is a fine wingman. We'll have to be on our toes to stop these guys."

Benedictine was scheduled by the Tygers simply to fill in an open date, and because there were no other schools available for that date.

The high school athletic department didn't think the Cleveland club would furnish too much competition, and didn't expect them to pack the stands with paying customers.

Now the Benedictines loom as formidable opponents, and a good enough opening game attraction for Mansfield fans.

Before he scouted last Saturday's game, Snyder was sorry that Benedictine was making its first appearance against such a tough foe as Cathedral Latin.

"Latin probably will have the ball all afternoon, and all I'll get to see is Benedictine's defense," the Tyger tutor lamented.

He was surprised, and not exactly pleasantly. Benedictine showed him enough to give him plenty of worry over Friday night's outcome.

What are the Tygers doing in preparation for the game? Still attempting to correct mistakes of the first two games. "We want to get those mistakes ironed out before we try something new," Snyder explained

Father Draft Causes Worry

May Kill Baseball For Duration of War.

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK —(INS)— Will the new father-draft regulations kill baseball for the duration?

As the baseball clans begin gathering in New York for the world series starting next Tuesday they are thinking less—and talking less—about the outcome of the Yankee-Cardinal encore and more and more about the future of the game itself.

With baseball rightly missing from the list of deferable occupations and with dependency no longer to be a reason for deferment—except in extreme cases—most of the onlookers quietly agree this may be the end. That is, unless something unforseen turns up when pre-Pearl Harbor fathers begin to get the call beginning Friday, almost on the eve of what is expected to be the biggest world series ever played.

This world series may be playing its own requiem, making the last stand for fall classics until the war is over and it is only fitting that more thousands of people will pay more thousands of dollars to watch it. There will be all the enthusiasm to be expected of a sports-loving country which finds itself weary of the war headlines and with money in the pocket—fresh spending money looking for action.

But over the series insofar as baseball itself is concerned will hang the pall to be found wherever people gather for they believe may be a last stand. Not a last stand in a permanent sense, but for a summer or two, which is quite enough.

Reds Take 2nd Place In League

Win Ninth Straight Game To Clinch Honor.

By JUDSON BAILEY

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

BEFORE they shed their uniforms for the winter the St. Louis Cardinals may have reason to be glad they clinched the National League pennant before the Cincinnati Reds became properly organized.

The Reds mathematically clinched second place yesterday by sweeping a double-header from the Philadelphia Phillies and running their latest winning streak to nine games.

The Reds have had a couple of six game streaks earlier, but it took the late days of September for them to get really hot. They whipped the Phillies 4-3 and 2-0 with two seven-hit pitching performances by Ray Starr and Joe Beggs.

The Brooklyn Dodgers dropped a doubleheader to the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-2 and 4-2 and fell into fourth place as the Buccaneers took over third. The Pirates were held to six hits in each game, but bunched five of them for three runs in the sixth inning of the opener and fitted them together at timely intervals in the second session also.

In the meantime the Cardinals split a doubleheader with the Boston Braves. Mort Cooper, the Cardinals' ace pitcher, started the first game and was relieved in the sixth inning by Lefty Harry Brecheen with the Braves ahead 4-3. Boston went on to win in the 13th 6-5 and the fact that another southpaw, Max Lanier, stopped the Braves in the second game 7-1 on six-hit hurling in the nightcap did little to camouflage Cooper's unsuccessful effort in the first game.

The Chicago Cubs took two games from New York, definitely interring the Giants in the cellar, 3-2 in ten innings and 2-1. A single by Rookie Eddie Sauer with the bases loaded in the tenth gave the veteran Paul Derringer the 200th victory of his major league career in the opener and a two-run rally in the ninth won the second session for Lon Warneke after Hugh East had pitched five-hit shutout ball for eight frames.

The New York Yankees were beaten 11-3 in their final conflict with the Cleveland Indians, but all the score meant was that Marvin Breuer would get a good rest during the World Series.

Manager Joe McCarthy gave Breuer his first starting assignment of the season and then sat in the stands to see what happened to his sore-armed righthander... What he saw was Breuer giving up nine hits in less than five frames, allowing a five-run rally in the fourth and letting another five-run flurry start in the fifth.

The Boston Red Sox trounced the Detroit Tigers 6-1 and the Philadelphia Athletics worked out on the St. Louis Browns 8-3 with Rookie Lou Ciola scattering eight hits.

Red Birds Take Second Straight

COLUMBUS—(AP)—A battle of southpaws was in prospect tonight as the Columbus Red Birds came home to shoot for their third straight American Association playoff championship.

The Birds beat Indianapolis, 3 to 0, in the Hoosier capital last night for their second consecutive win in the best three-of-five games final playoff series. The Indians lost Monday night 9 to 3, and now need three straight victories over Columbus to eliminate the Red Birds. A win tonight for Columbus would give the Birds the championship and entrance into the little world series against Syracuse, winner of the International league playoff battle.

Southpaw George Dockins was slated to pitch for Columbus while Manager Donie Bush picked his ace, Jim Trexler, to hurl for the Indians, although he had only two days' rest.

* * *

The difference between good pitching and excellent pitching was demonstrated last night by Johnny Hutchins for the Indians and Preacher Roe for Columbus. Roe's four-hit performance won him his second shutout of the playoff games. Hutchings permitted seven blows.

Illinois Stars Of Last Year At Purdue

Football season will be a screwy one. Transfer of students among the colleges makes for many unusual situations. Take these five footballers for example. Last year they were stars at Illinois. But this year—they're at Purdue and ready to go with the Boilermakers. From the left are End Frank Bauman, Tackle John Genis, Fullback Tony Butkovich, Tackle Mike Kasap and Guard Alex Agase.

NEW YORK—Henry Jeffra, 131, Baltimore, outpointed Davey Crawford, 124½, New York (8).

NEW YORK—Al Davis, 148¼, New York, knocked out Tony Reno, 155, Chicago (7).

CLEVELAND—(INS)—The hunch players at Thistledown track today were prepared to play the horses ridden by Mike Caffarella next Tuesday after the Schnectady jockey rode home on four winners in yesterday's action.

On the Tuesday previous, Caffarella was on board five winners. Yesterday, he booted in Columbus Day, Helen Ann Van, Hughie L., and Restless.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

NEW YORK —(AP)— Publicity item from the local racing associations says that Saturday's "back the Attack" day at Belmont Park will feature a $10,000 special for "the speediest older horses not in training." . . . Sounds like another Whirlaway-Alsab duel . . . But, all typographical errors aside, this is once when the hoss race customers really will get their money's worth (providing they don't lose too many bets) . . . They'll get the Futurity and the Jockey Club gold cup, which cost the track $25,000 apiece in purse money, a $10,000 race for juveniles like Bee Mac and Alorter that aren't eligible for the Futurity and the race mentioned above—and war bonds instead of torn-up mutuel tickets for souvenirs.

ALL A LOAN

When Corp. Martin Furgol of Fort Hancock, N. J., former Miami Beach golf pro, won the greater New York Army and Navy tournament at Bethpage Park, L. I., last week, he wore golf shoes borrowed from Phil Forbes, Fort Hancock YMCA physical director, played with clubs belonging to Maj. Robert F Spottwood, post special service officer, and with a 1941 ball (unused) borrowed from Frank Robbins of the Fort Hamilton YMCA. He hitch-hiked from Fort Hancock to New York and lugged his own clubs around the course while he shot a nifty 74.

BUCKEYES MAY LOSE CANTON HALFBACK

COLUMBUS — (INS — Ohio State resumed practice today in preparation for Saturday's tilt with the Missouri Tigers.

Coaches expressed doubt today that Jasper Harris, halfback substitute from Canton would return to the squad. Harris' father suffered a stroke while watching his son play against the Iowa Seahawks last Saturday and died Monday.

Jasper has returned to Canton to attend the funeral and is not expected to rejoin the squad.

Madison May Cancel Games

Undermanned Squad To Fill Orrville Contract.

Madison high school's undermanned Rams face the possibility of being forced to cancel the rest of their games after Friday night's trip to Orrville, Coach Jeff DeHaven indicated today.

Handicapped all season by a small squad which made scrimmage practice impossible, DeHaven had to cancel Tuesday night's practice when only seven players, including two freshmen, showed up.

"We'll go through with the Orrville game," DeHaven said, "but unless we can get more boys out for football, we may have to cancel the rest of our schedule."

Coach DeHaven had been planning changes in the line-up for next week's game. With Robert Conroy on one end, he has his redheaded twin brother on the other. Jim was playing blocking-back.

Bob Anthony, star half-back of the Rams, has had the bandage removed from his injured hand, hurt in a practice session last Wednesday and DeHaven indicated that Anthony may be able to play in Friday night's game. Other backfield positions will probably be filled by Bader, Harfman, and Stoner.

Want Army-Navy Game Changed

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— For war bond purposes, the Army-Navy football game on Nov. 27 may be shifted from the isolation of West Point to New York's Yankee stadium.

If last nights report from treasury representatives in New York over the teletype to Washington was favorable, treasury officials will confer today or tomorrow with war department heads regarding the change.

A Washington spokesman for the treasury department told the United Press today, "we became greatly interested in the Army-Navy game as a bond-selling event after the fine showings made by the two service schools in their opening games Saturday.

OVERSEAS FIGHTERS TO HEAR WORLD SERIES

NEW YORK—(AP)—Overseas service men will get a short-wave earful of the world series. They will do so primarily through daily 45-minute recreations from a telegraph report supplied by the army and through 15-minute summaries sent by BBC (British radio). The NBC and CBS short waves also will carry summaries.

These transmissions are in addition to the fifth annual exclusive network relay in this country, Canada and Hawaii by the MBS station list under sponsorship. The first games in New York next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday will have an air time of 1:15 p. m., while at St. Louis will be 2:15.

Indians Cling To 3rd Place

Make Hits Count In Victory Over Yanks.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The Indians, going nowhere in particular, continued today to cling to third place in the American league by a game and a half.

The Indians defeated the pennant-winning New York Yankees yesterday 11 to 3, making almost everyone of their 12 blows figure in the scoring.

Mel Harder scattered 10 Yankee hits to earn his eighth victory of the year.

The Indians meet Washington today in a double header with Jim Bagby seeking his 18th victory in one of the games.

CINCINNATI —(U.P.)— The Cincinati Reds, assured of second place money in the National league, only go through the motions now during their remaining games.

The Reds cinched second place yesterday by defeating Philadelphia 4 to 3 and 2 to 0 in a doubleheader while the Brooklyn Dodgers were dropping a twin bill to the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Ray Starr set the Phillies back with seven hits in the first game yesterday while the Reds came through with a ninth inning rally which scored two runs and won the game.

In their last turn at bat, Ray Mueller and Chuck Aleno singled and then Lonnie Frey singled in the tying run. Eric Tipton, running for Aleno, scored the winning run on Woody Williams' fly.

* * *

The second game was a pitcher's duel between Joe Beggs and Jack Kraus until the eighth when Mueller broke the deadlock with a home run. The Reds got another in the same inning after Frey walked, got to third on a steal and an error and scored on a fly.

EXPECT SPECIAL FDR MESSAGE ON FOOD SITUATION

Congressmen Look For Action By President as Jones Asks For Subsidies.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Congressional leaders said after a conference with President Roosevelt today that they expected him to send a message to congress soon "on the food situation."

War Food Administrator Marvin Jones meanwhile opened the administration's drive for expanded food subsidies by asking congress to increase the WFA's price-support and subsidy authorization from $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000.

Senate Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley, Ky., said after the White House conference that while details were not discussed they talked to Mr. Roosevelt about a food message emphasizing farm production in 1944.

Jones said at a house banking and currency committee hearing that farm production costs are rising and that the government should be ready to absorb losses where necessary.

The additional authorization requested by Jones would give the WFA authority to spend more than $1,000,000,000, including present Commodity Credit corporation funds, for subsidies and price supports during an indefinite period starting Jan. 1, 1944. The hearing at which Jones testified were on a bill to extend the life of the CCC beyond the present Dec. 31 expiration date.

Jones asked congress for authorization to purchase perishable commodities and resell at less than parity whenever necessary to prevent waste. The present CCC act prohibits the sale of any farm commodity except grain for livestock feed at below parity.

Jones said: "In my judgment, the best way to get production is to have a definite support price that will last throughout the season. It should be high enough to cover the added risks and hazards that go with increased production.

"This means that the government would stand ready to buy any surplus of a commodity that might not flow into the regular channels at the time, and to absorb whatever loss may be necessary."

FEARS NEW CUT

Brown Says OPA Set To Slash A Coupons To Two Gallons.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R., O., said today he had been informed a reduction order by the Office of Price Administration, cutting "A" gasoline rations in Ohio and other midwestern states from three to two gallons per unit, has been prepared since Sept. 21.

Brown told an unofficial house committee which was created to oppose "unnecessary" ration cuts that he had conferred with Ralph K. Davies, deputy director of the petroleum administration for war and "had gathered that further reductions may be anticipated."

Davies told him, Brown said, there had been little reduction in consumption in District 2, which includes Ohio and 14 other midwest states, since A, B and C rations were cut from four to three gallons in August.

DRIVERS SAVE

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Gasoline rationing has reduced Ohio motorists' use of the fuel 24 per cent, state tax department records indicated today.

The figures showed net gasoline consumption on highways was 656,1014,071 gallons in the Dec. 1, 1942-July 31, 1943 period compared with 869,692,524 gallons in the corresponding months a year before, a decrease of 213,678,453 gallons.

HOLDS EXAMS

Cicil Service Board Holds Tests on Chief Tonight.

Mansfield's next fire chief and a number of city employes and school custodians will be chosen from civil service eligible lists which will be made up following examinations at 7 p. m. today at the city building.

Only known applicants for the fire chief's post, vacated by C. J. Seeburger, are Acting Chief L. R. Zimmerman and Capt. Frank Stahl of the No. 4 station.

Other jobs that will be filled from the civil service list include city patrolmen, firemen, operators at the city sanitary sewer plant, truck drivers, custodians at Senior high school and elementary building, and janitors at the city building.

Salaries for the various jobs range from $140 a month for beginner patrolmen and firemen to $220 a month for the fire chief.

Board Employs Teachers for Nursery School

Two teachers had been employed today for the city's first nursery school for children of war workers, scheduled to open Monday at John Simpson Junior high school, Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller said today.

Miss Ruby Doolittle and Mrs. Edith Selby, both of Mansfield, will be the instructors, while a third helper is yet to be employed.

The noon meal and mid-morning and mid-afternoon lunches will be provided by the John Simpson cafeteria, eliminating the need for special cooks at the nursery, Supt. Miller said.

Nearly 20 registrations for the nursery had been received today, enough to warrant the opening of one school, the superintendent said. The nursery will be open from 5:30 a. m. to 6:30 p. m., enabling working mothers to leave their children of pre-school age at the school throughout the day. Children from two to five and a half years old may be enrolled. Registrations are received at the office of the superintendent of schools.

Supt. Miller said today that toys are needed for the nursery. Donations of articles that are in good condition may be turned in at the superintendent's office.

ATTEND CONFAB

CRESTLINE—Ten members of the Presbyterian church attended a meeting of the Galion district of the Marion Presbyterial at Bucyrus Tuesday.

Mrs. R. L. Alderton led the devotionals at the morning session and Mrs. Glen Clark sang a solo. Others who attended were Mrs. V. K. Dawson, Mrs. V. O. Craig, Mrs. C. E. Cook, Mrs. A. G. Carlisle, Mrs. Sherwood McKean, Mrs. C. B. Harmon, Mrs. E. D. Mille and Mrs. L. M. Niswander.

DIES AT HOME

Mrs. Jennie P. Bish, wife of C. O. Bish, died unexpectedly at her home two miles east of Mansfield this morning. The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home pending funeral arrangements.

Airport Will Be 'Bombed' Sunday During OCD Show

Plans were nearing completion today for the civilian defense demonstration at Stadium field Sunday night when a miniature Mansfield will be "bombed" by planes from the city's airport.

The show, open to the public, will get under way with a band concert at 5:30 p. m. Representatives of the state civilian defense office in Columbus are expected to talk briefly, and then "enemy" planes will come over to drop "bombs" on miniature houses, a school, and an apartment building.

Air raid wardens, first aid workers, and auxiliary police and firemen will be on hand to "rescue" the victims and put out the fire.

Participants in the demonstration will stage a rehearsal Thursday at 6:30 p. m. under the lights at Stadium field and another, in full "dress" Saturday night, Ray Ward, chief air raid warden in the downtown area, said today. Ward said there will be no rehearsal tonight at the fairground as scheduled.

Civilian defense officials said they need volunteers to occupy the buildings during the raid.

RUSH STORES

Housewives Seeking Butter Before Point Increase.

Mansfield housewives today continued to flock to grocery stores and dairies to get butter following the OPA announcement that the point value for butter would be increased Sunday to 16 points.

In most cases, housewives found that the supply was not as large as the demand because the stores selling dairy products received only a certain allotment of butter each day. Usually the amount of butter allotted did not meet the daily demand.

Many Mansfield stores reported selling out of butter today before closing hours. A new supply is usually delivered daily.

MORALE CRACKS

Nazi Sub Crews Now Being Drafted, Admiral Believes.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The morale of Germany's submarine crews, on whom Hitler counted to win the Battle of the Atlantic, may be cracking under the deadliness of Allied counterblows, according to Rear Admiral Francis S. Low.

Low, in a radio interview last night, said that there were indications the Germans now are resorting to drafting U-boat crews —a situation similar to that during the last months of World War I when the Kaiser's submarine complements refused to put to sea.

BURIED TODAY

ASHLAND — Funeral services were held here today for Rose Mary Warnes, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rolla Warnes, who died Monday following a lingering illness. Burial was in Ashland cemetery.

She is survived by her parents; a brother, Forest Lee, at home, and her grandmothers, Mrs. Flora Reed of Ashland and Mrs. Millie Brockway of Nankin.

BANKER SHOT

ATLANTA — (AP) — Henry C. Heinz, 63, Atlanta banker and past president of Kiwanis International, was shot to death by a masked prowler at his home last night, and his son-in-law, Dr. Bryant K. Vann, 40, rushing to the Heinz home in answer to a call for help, was seriously wounded in a gun battle with police when each apparently mistook the other for the slayer.

CHAPTER II

Stepping into the sunlight, Kit walked several blocks in a happy, grateful daze, unmindful of any destination. She could write Aunt Chris that she had a job! She could leave the hideous little room where the blinking lights across the street kept her awake at night! She could, yes, she could eat enough once more!

It was this thought that made her stop quite still before a small restaurant. Why not begin to catch up on the lost meals now? She couldn't begin an important job on an empty stomach. An important job, and one not a little frightening.

She gave the door a little push and went in and momentarily was in a panic. For what she saw first was a long bar crowded with men in a noisy and smoky room. She stood very still, wondering if anyone had seen her and if she could leave unnoticed. Then she saw another room in the rear with white-clothed tables and men and women sitting at them.

Seizing her courage, mindful of Aunt Chris's antipathy for bars, she walked past the bar and the men, trying not to look at anyone, trying too not to look embarrassed or lonely. When she reached the other room, she sat down and picked up a menu and did not raise her eyes from it until the waiter had come and gone away.

When finally she lifted her eyes, she saw people having a leisurely luncheon and chatting with animation. How absurd to feel frightened as if she had gone into a stranger's room by mistake! She thought, "One of the things I like about New York is that nobody pays any attention to you . . ."

When the waiter came in with a crowded tray, she thought, "Did I order this much? It looks like one of Aunt Chris's steak dinners with all the trimmings." And then proceeded to enjoy herself as she had not since she came to New York three months ago as bewildered as a fugitive.

There was nothing on her plate when she heard a voice at her elbow.

"For a little girl, you certainly have a big appetite."

She glanced up quickly. The speaker was a young man with brown eyes, which would have been gay had they not been so tired, with rather unkempt brown hair and a crooked boyish smile. At her startled upturned face, the brown brows went up and his grin broadened. An instant later she saw his broad back in a brown tweed coat pass through the door. Her heart returned to normal as she thought, "Once in a while here you see the face of a person you'd like to know. But they go on and you never see them again. I wonder if he'd been noticing how much I ate. Of course he had . . ."

Slowly she walked back to her room. At least it would be her last night there and she could use the time by writing to Aunt Chris and getting her clothes in order. Suddenly a wave of nostalgia swept over her. Her life would never be as it had been for the past twenty-one years. Nothing would ever be quite the same again. This was a new life after the brutally sharp break with the old one.

It had been good, the old life, all of the twenty-one years, though the first years she could not, of course, remember. If only she could remember the first three years with her mother and father, then perhaps the multitude of questions that tormented her could be answered. For she had been told when she reached the questioning age that her parents were dead; that they had been fine, wonderful people who lived in New York; that she was born there and had lived there until Aunt Chris, her mother's aunt, a government office worker, had taken her to raise.

Aunt Chris had not encouraged questions about her parents and had been quick to divert her mind when Kit was curious. Growing up in the comfortable, second-floor apartment of one of Washington's old town houses, she had been conscious of Aunt Chris's careful indifference and had thought her great-aunt had been so fond of her mother, her only niece, that she was loath to speak of her in the past tense. You could not love people you had never really known and so she had given all of her love to Aunt Chris, who had so admirably filled the role of both mother and father that Kit had never felt the loss.

It seems that you will never grow up and yet, looking back, the childhood years of school and play seem all too brief. There had never been very much money, only Aunt Chris's salary and the small income from Kit's great-grandfather and Aunt Chris's father, which in earlier days had paid for the necessary servant so that Aunt Chris could keep her job. That, however, had been exhausted some years ago and it had been Aunt Chris who paid, at what personal sacrifice Kit could only guess, for Kit's one year at the University of Maryland and then the business course which had led to a job with a struggling young attorney.

An alert, contemplative girl, Kit had often examined her life and found it not wanting in anything that suited her simple tastes. She was young and healthy; she had Aunt Chris and friends and a job. She was blessed and knew it. Living was fun . . . In the winter she went to the theater, to concerts, and danced with the boys she had known since her high school and university days. She read and went to the movies and took walks. In the summer there were swimming parties and dancing out of doors and picnics and drives to nearby interesting places. Yes, living was fun.

Ultimately, she had thought, there was marriage but that was something very special with someone she hadn't met yet. She couldn't fall in and out of love the way other girls did. You could truly be in love only once and she knew that it would be as if a miracle were happening and that nothing else would ever be as important as that.

Until three months ago . . .

Kit had known Jane Morrell all her life. For Jane's mother, Evelyn, long divorced, a pretty, animated woman, had worked with Aunt Chris for as long as Kit could remember. Despite the difference in their ages (Evelyn was scarcely forty and Aunt Chris in her late fifties) they were good friends and it was natural that Kit and Jane saw much of each other as girls growing up in the same neighborhood. But childhood ended their friendship when Kit entered the university and Jane, a striking blond, began to earn a lucrative living as a model. Kit knew that to the pseudo-sophisticated Jane she was not only an unseasoned child but also rather a strange individual who liked to read and to listen to music, and who selected her friends more for the quality of their minds and hearts than for the size of their purses.

Kit had been dancing with Jeff Lindley and a party of friends the night she saw Jane with a party of her friends. And it had happened because Jane had been drinking. When Jane and her friends were about to leave, Jane paused and asked Kit to join them, and Kit had courteously refused. Then Jane had shouted at her, "You're proud, that's it . . . You're too proud to make a night of it with us! We're not good enough for you! That's funny — that's very funny, because you see, you're not good enough for us. Your father was a thief! He stole money and for all I know he's still in jail . . . He was a thief, a common thief! My mother told me! Ask her—ask your aunt! They'll tell you . . . He was no good . . . And you're proud . . ." And to her friends, "Come on, let's go . . ."

Kit had awakened Aunt Chris at two o'clock in the morning, after a ghastly ride back with Jeff who had tried to pretend that nothing had happened. "She was drunk. She didn't know what she was saying," was all he said. But Kit had awakened Aunt Chris and the two of them, Kit in a flame-colored frock, her face more deeply troubled than it had ever been before, and Aunt Chris, her shock of short white hair disheveled, her dark dressing gown over her pajamas, had sat in the living room until the day was almost upon them.

GREMLINS PULL SIREN

PASADENA, Cal. — (U.P.) — When a short circuit caused the siren to warn that an "unidentified aircraft" was overhead, 64 citizens violated the air-raid regulations not to telephone the air-raid warden, and telephoned Police Dispatcher D. R. Hamilton to know "what's doing?" Then just as he got all 64 calmed down, the siren went on a second spree. To the inquiries about this one, he merely replied "gremlins."

SLIGHT GAINS RECORDED FOR FEW LEADERS

Farm Equipment Producers Find Difficulty In Obtaining Steel.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—A few leaders recorded modest gains in today's early stock market dealings but the general trend continued uneven with most changes confined to narrow fractions Higher at a slow opening were Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, General Electric, N Y. Central and Southern Pacific. General Motors, Pennsylvania, International Telephone and United Aircraft were a little lower.

Holders of farm equipment shares noted the comment of Iron Age that "despite governmental promises that they would be taken care of on their steel requirements, the manufacturers are finding it difficult to secure space on mill books due to delay in receiving allotments. * * * the real damage caused by the delays in the farm machinery program will not be fully apparent until the 1944 crop harvesting period."

THEATERS

'Souls at Sea.'

A trial of a sea captain which electrified the world a hundred years ago is powerfully and brilliantly brought back to life in the epic motion picture, "Souls at Sea," now playing at the Madison theater. Played by a cast headed by Gary Cooper, George Raft and Frances Dee, and with Robert Cummings in a strong supporting role, the picture is co-featured with a romantic mystery thrill film, "Two Tickets to London," starring Michele Morgan.

'Lady In Distress.'

"Lady in Distress," now playing at the Ritz theater, stars Paul Lukas, Sally Gray, and Michael Redgrave, who abandoned his screen work to become a simple seaman in His Majesty's Navy when the war broke out. Redgrave is currently serving with a corvette in the North sea. The other feature on the same bill is "Bahama Passage." Leading players are Madeleine Carroll and Sterling Hayden.

Sings Two Songs.

Cpl. Robert Shanley, who steps out of the chorus but once as a soloist in the Air Corps number of Irving Berlin's "This Is the Army," now at the Ohio theater, in which he sings "With My Head in the Clouds" and "American Eagles," was the featured singer in the New York City's Radio City Music Hall for two years prior to his induction into the army. Before he had appeared in a number of Broadway musical productions and had been soloist for a radio network

PURSE STRING MOVE SIGHTED

Crowley Appointment Seen as Financial Consolidation.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt's delegation of direction over foreign economic operations to Leo T. Crowley was interpreted in congress today as assuring legislative control of the purse strings when the time comes to make extensive appropriations for the relief and rehabilitation of peoples freed from the Axis yoke.

A high administration official said that one of the principal objectives of the move placing four separate foreign economic agencies under Crowley, who already headed the office of Economic Warfare (OWE), was to simplify dealings with congress when appropriations are sought.

FASTEST HUMAN

Thunderbolt Pilot Believed To Have Flown 840 M. P. H.

A UNITED STATES FIGHTER BASE, SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND—(AP)—Second Lieut. Robert H. Knapp of Norwich, N. Y., was believed today to have achieved a speed of approximately 840 miles per hour in a dive during an airfight over Emden, Germany, last Monday.

If true, then Knapp, pilot of a P-47 Thunderbolt fighter which helped escort Flying Fortresses in a raid on the German city, probably has flown faster than any human being ever has traveled before. The greatest speed previously officially recorded was 780 M. P. H.

RUSSIAN DRIVE GAINS IN FORCE ALONG DNIEPER

at many points and cut routes of retreat to the river. Large numbers of Germans were reported encircled, together with thousands of Ukrainian civilians being carried off to Nazi slavery.

Below Gomel, the Russians seized 150 more localities in mopping up the east bank of the Dnieper river in preparation for a drive across the stream in the hope of forcing the Germans back to the Bug and Dniester rivers by winter.

(Berlin broadcasts reported the Russians were attempting to seize island stepping stones in the Dnieper north of Kiev and around Dnepropetrovsk. Some forces succeeded in landing on the west bank, one broadcast said, but they were reported to have been "sealed off.")

Red air force planes, striking out in advance of ground forces, wrecked 200 trucks, all loaded with troops and war material, and a number of tanks in attacks on German concentrations on the west bank.

The Soviet drive into White Russia appeared to be gaining momentum daily, with the Germans abandoning even prepared defenses without a fight in their hasty retreat. Russian flying columns drove deep into the enemy rear and split up fleeing units for annihilation by the main Red army forces.

The principal advance through the historic Smolensk gate — the 50-mile-wide gap between the Dnieper and the Dvina rivers — carried the Russians 38 miles beyond the smashed defenses of Smolensk to Krasnoye, only 26 miles northeast of the big railroad junction at Orsha.

More than 2,000 Germans were killed in fighting on the White Russian front yesterday.

Thirty-two localities were captured by the Russians on the densely-populated east bank of the Dnieper river opposite Kiev, where the German bridgehead was believed all but wiped out, and 122 others were seized near Kremenchug, 160 miles downstream.

One Soviet column cut in behind the Germans at Kremenchug and encircled a large force before it could cross the Dnieper. Part of the force was killed and the remainder surrendered.

bombers followed the Liberators, laying their bombs from tree-top level squarely across all four fields and strafing the entire area with more than 160,000 rounds of machinegun fire.

At least 50 Japanese aircraft were caught aground and destroyed and eight more were shot down when 20 enemy fighters attempted to break up the attack. Three other enemy fighters probably were destroyed before the interceptors fled.

The raiders also bombed the harbor area, leaving three tankers and four merchantmen sunk or sinking, and destroying or damaging severely 29 barges and luggers.

Other Allied fighters ranged along the New Guinea coast north of Finschhafen, machine-gunning barges in the Hansa bay area and motor traffic along the coastal road.

In the central Solomons, American bombers and fighters attacked enemy positions on Kolombangara island, while 38 Japanese planes attempted a raid on Vella Lavella island but were driven off by Allied fighter patrols. One enemy plane was downed.

A formation of 21 Japanese medium bombers and four Zeros bombed and strafed the mission station at Drysdale, in northwestern Australia Monday, causing minor damage and some casualties, the communique reported.

SAVES LIFE

SEATTLE —(INS)— Lieut. Robert M. Pourtales of Seattle and his wife are thankful he was seriously wounded during a Flying Fortress raid on synthetic rubber plants in Germany. Three days after Pourtales was wounded his bomber was shot down on another raid.

The Seattle man, who was co-pilot of the huge plane, wrote his wife that a transfusion from his Red Cross blood bank probably saved his life.

Inmates Proudly Watch 'NS' Flag Go Up at Reformatory

R. R. Bangham, manager of the manufacturing and sales division of the department of welfare, who acted as master of ceremonies.

Glattke, in greeting the guests, revealed that the institution's guards and instructors stood highest among all state institutions in the purchase of war bonds, with a record of 95 per cent.

Bangham commended the inmates on their record—which covers manufacture of furniture for the army and navy, bond purchases, increased food output and blood donations—and introduced other speakers and guests.

Speaking briefly were State Welfare Director Herbert Mooney, L. E. Pierson, assistant director, and Mayor W. J. Locke.

Principal address was made by Garrett Heyns, director of the Michigan correction commission who presented the pennant as the prison industries representative of the War Production board.

"This is an event that would make Hitler shake his head," Heyns told the crowd, "because Hitler always said democracies would be easy to lick because the people wouldn't co-operate.

"But here we have the instance of people who have made a mistake and therefore are in this institution whole-heartedly co-operating in the war effort.

"And here we have the national government taking time to pay tribute to this kind of co-operation on the part of these people."

"Remember," continued Heyns, "that this citation is for achievement for all of you- not any single one, not your officers- but all of you. It is a tribute to your spirit.

"Remember also that anything done unselfishly, as you have performed this war task, does you good selfishly.

"An illustration lies in the fact that manufacturers now are asking institution officials to give them first chance at offering jobs to men who have proven their ability at jobs such as you are doing here, when released on parole.

"That's where the selfish benefit come in. What you do for the war effort now will do you good when you leave here.

"I'd like to leave one other thought," Heyns concluded. "When the war began, some of you who wanted to get into it were 'caught short' because you were here.

"After this war's over, there'll be another one, and if you're out of here then, don't get 'caught short' in that one. That other war will be one for decent living, for good citizenship. Be on the right side in that one. You've learned how to do it here."

Other guests introduced by Bangham included state welfare department officials as well as Mansfielders. From the state welfare department were George Radway, chief clerk of the manufacturing and sales division; J. J. Munsell, of the same division; W. I. Bishop, chief clerk of Ohio Penitentiary; John Weidner, business administrator of the department; Dr. J. L. Stransbury, department veterinarian; Forest Frost, agricultural director of Mt. Vernon sanitarium, and John Bragg, department agriculturalist.

Accompanying Heyns was Fred J. Monnell, superintendent of industry in state institutions.

From Mansfield besides the mayor, were John G. Routzon, of the Chamber of Commerce; Sam V. Fox, former Legion commander and member of the OSR draft board, Lieut. E. D. Lounsberry, representing the navy inspection division here, Alvin H. Fankhauser and W. C. Mead of the city school board, and R. D. Lindsay, of The News-Journal.

Chaplain M. W. Wappner gave the invocation, and the 18-piece reformatory band played during the program.

The ceremony was brought to a close by O. F. Garver, assistant superintendent, who declared that in 40 years at the institution, there had been no event — and would be none — that would remain in his memory more vividly than the NS ceremony.

MAIL CARRIER 42 YEARS DIES

George T. Rhodes, 84, Taken By Death; Rites To Be Held Saturday.

George Tisdal Rhodes, 84, retired Mansfield mail carrier, died at his home, 434 West Fourth street, at 6 a. m. today. He had been in failing health for the past several months.

Before retiring from the postoffice service Sept. 30, 1928, Mr. Rhodes carried mail for 42 years, setting a service record in the local postoffice. He received his appointment in 1881 from Postmaster Douglas and served under eight different postmasters before his retirement.

At the time Mr. Rhodes left the postoffice it was estimated he had walked 201,600 miles—a distance equal to eight times around the world--carrying letters to Mansfielders.

During his nearly half a century of delivering mail he made scores of friends along his route which included Fourth street east of Main street and the side streets in that area.

He was born in Capay Valley, Calif., March 2, 1859, the son of William H. and Alzoa Winslow Rhodes. He came to Mansfield with his parents in 1866 and entered the grocery business with his father remaining there until his appointment as a mail carrier.

Surviving are a sister, Miss Mollie Rhodes at home and three nephews.

Funeral services will be held at the late home Saturday at 2:30 p. m. with Rev. Albert L. Linder, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church in charge. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

bilization. But once they were given the cold facts of what the armed forces needed in the way of production to win the war, they said that they were impressed.

They came away, too, with the opinion that the army did not want to keep the thirty billion dollars worth of war plants the government now owns once the war is over. They were given a promise, too, that the system of free competitive bidding, not the present direct negotiation and renegotiation of government contracts, would be restored after the war.

Their main thought was, as they left Washington, let's get the war over with by giving the army all it needs on time and then start converting for the postwar prosperity area.

Canady, chairman of the board of the Willys-Overland company, expressed hope that the army would allow his company, after the war, to buy up the surplus army jeeps it makes and market them through their regular salesrooms. This, he added, would "tide the company over" during its reconversion period when it would tool up to give the country a small car he hopes will sell by the millions.

SIT AND GLARE

Motorists Eye Each Other For 12 Hours On Narrow Road.

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho—(AP)—Sheriff's Deputy Cliff Johnson was called to a lonely, one-way country road at 6 a. m., and found two motorists sitting in their cars glaring at each other.

They'd been there 12 hours, said the deputy, each refusing to back up to a wide spot in the road and let the other by.

Amazing results
in building
STURDY BODIES!
1—Promote the flow of vital digestive juices in the stomach
2—Energize your body with RICH, RED BLOOD!

YOUNG people, especially those of grammar and high school age, are prone to be deficient in stomach digestive juices and red-blood.

A growing-person who is operating on a 65 to 70% healthy blood volume or a stomach digestive capacity of only 50 to 60% normal is severely handicapped.

In such cases Nature needs extra help. Organic troubles or focal infection, if they exist, must be corrected. Tissue foods must be digested and rich, red-blood must be present to build sturdy bodies.

SSS Tonic is especially designed to build-up BLOOD STRENGTH when deficient . . . and to promote those STOMACH JUICES which digest the food so the body can make proper use of it in tissue building and repair.

These two important results enable the body to make use of the food as Nature intended. Thus you may gain a keen appetite . . . firm flesh . . . body energy . . . mental alertness!

Build Sturdy Health and Help America Win

Thousands and thousands of users have testified to the benefits SSS Tonic has brought to them and scientific research shows that it gets results—that's why so many say "SSS Tonic builds sturdy health—makes you feel like yourself again." At drug stores in 10 and 20 oz. sizes. ©S.S.S.Co

MORE OIL THAN WATER

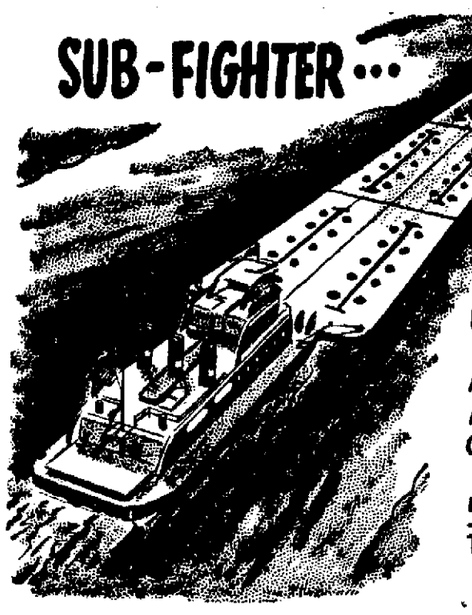
EVER WONDERED JUST HOW IMPORTANT OIL IS TO AMERICA? WE ACTUALLY USE MORE OIL THAN DRINKING WATER! (AN AVERAGE OF 17 QUARTS A DAY PER FAMILY IN 1941.) IN MAKING STEEL, FOR EXAMPLE, IT TAKES A BARREL OF OIL TO PRODUCE EACH TON.

RUBBER THAT GROWS UNDER THE GROUND!

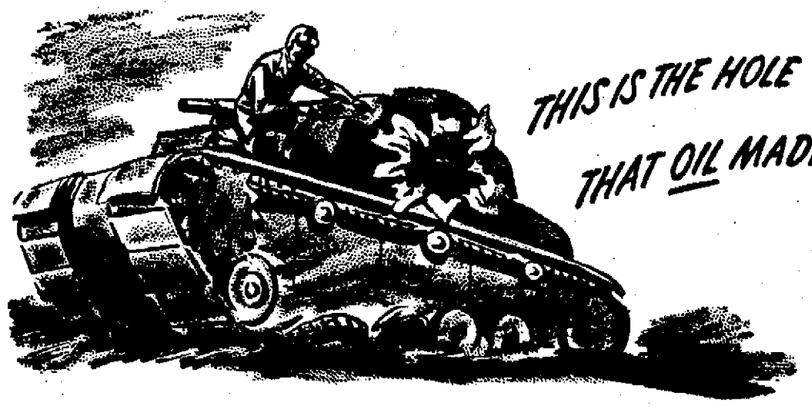
FROM DEEP IN THE EARTH COMES OIL. AND NOW, THANKS TO A MIRACLE OF PETROLEUM CHEMISTRY, AMERICA IS GETTING SYNTHETIC RUBBER FROM THAT OIL.

SYNTHETIC RUBBER FOR OUR PLANES, TANKS, SHIPS AND GUNS -- FOR OUR TRUCKS AND CARS. SYNTHETIC RUBBER FOR VICTORY!

SUB-FIGHTER ... ON THE OHIO!



THE SOHIOAN IS THE NEWEST AND BIGGEST OF ELEVEN SOHIO TOWBOATS THAT BRING OIL UP THE MISSISSIPPI AND OHIO RIVERS TO THE MIDWEST—A ROUTE THE U-BOATS CAN'T GET AT. ON EACH TRIP, THE SOHIOAN "PUSHES" AN AMOUNT OF OIL EQUIVALENT TO 4 MILES OF TANK CARS - FREEING THOSE VITALLY-NEEDED CARS FOR OTHER USE!



THIS IS THE HOLE THAT OIL MADE!

NEW 57-MM. ANTITANK SHELLS THAT CUT THROUGH THICK ENEMY TANK ARMOR LIKE BUTTER ARE NOW BEING MADE IN OHIO. AND THE SHELL CAP THAT MAKES THIS POSSIBLE OWES ITS EXTREME TOUGHNESS TO A NEW KIND OF OIL DEVELOPED BY SOHIO. THIS REMARKABLE "CUTTING OIL" PERMITS THE CAPS TO BE MADE OF THE SAME HARD STEEL AS IS USED IN THE MACHINE TOOLS THAT SHAPE IT!

DID YOU KNOW THIS?

4,500 "A" ration coupons an hour! Just one U. S. mechanized division, traveling at normal road speed, burns up 18,000 gallons of gasoline an hour—the equivalent of 4,500 "A" gas coupons!

• • •

Oil is ammunition! In one of our Navy Yards, 3,000 workers travel between 60 and 85 miles by automobile every day. They have no other way of getting to work.

• • •

Asphalt is a new dress. Every day hundreds of tons of SOHIO Asphalt are trucked out of our refineries for war use. To save steel, SOHIO Asphalt is now shipped in newly-developed paper drums.

• • •

Butyl—a name to remember. Most common type of synthetic rubber at present is Buna S. However, the oil industry is also making BUTYL synthetic rubber, which is especially useful for gas masks, raincoats, rubber boats, barrage balloons and many other war necessities.

Hot or cold—they work! An outstanding accomplishment of the petroleum industry has been to supply our armed forces with lubricants and fuels which enable equipment to operate equally well in all types of climates—from Alaska to the tropics.

There have been indications ring the past week that Pre- er Badoglio has been on the rge of declaring war upon rmany in an effort to line ly up with the Allies.

Another storm over government subsidies to producers, in order to cut retail food prices, appeared to be brewing in the house. The banking committee called on officials to specify the powers of the Commodity Credit corporation (CC) before legislation is passed continuing this agency. The subsidy payments bitterly opposed by some farm state legislators were handled by CCC. Said Rep. Crawford (R-Mich.):

"We're going to have another dog fight."

The lively discussion over reports that Gen. George C. Marshall, U. S. chief of staff, would be placed in command of all Anglo-American forces in the field, was given fresh impetus by President Roosevelt himself.

The executive made no effort to deny the story at his press conference, observing that there had been some leaks in prominent places but that a proposed transfer of any kind should be announced only when the time is ripe.

Home front complaints prompted the war food administration and the office of civilian requirements to try something in the way of feeling the public pulse. Jointly, they announced a series of complaint sessions to be held in 20 selected cities where merchants may tell what obstacles appear to be preventing them from getting enough goods to meet the public need.

HELD BY FBI

Four Cited For Ohio-Hawaii White Slave Operations.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation disclosed three men and one woman were being held for arraignment here today on charges of operating a white slave route between Youngstown and Honolulu.

Lee V. Boardman, Cleveland FBI chief, said 12 women had been taken from houses of prostitution in Warren, Sandusky, Niles, Dennison and Canton, to serve as witnesses against the four suspects.

"During the time we were in these houses," Boardman reported, "we noticed that boys between the ages of 15 to 19 were frequent customers, particularly in Dennison and Sandusky. In Dennison one of the prostitutes readily admitted that one-third of the callers were within that age limit."

is expected to be ready to present to city council at its meeting Tuesday night.

With the appraisal figure turned over to the mayor today, the city's original airport land and utility removal cost climbed to $161,146.

That amount includes, in addition to the land cost, $44,311 sought by three utility firms for re-locating their lines at the proposed airport site.

Last of the utility estimates was turned over to the city and Chamber of Commerce airport committee today by the Ohio Public Service company which asks $1,418 for moving its power lines out of the danger area for fliers.

The figure, said by Joy A. Herbert, division manager of the OPS, to be the lowest possible cost for moving its lines, is far under the amounts quoted by the Mansfield Telephone company and American Telephone and Telegraph company for re-locating their lines. The Mansfield Telephone company is asking $25,893 for its work and the A. T. and T. set its removal cost at approximately $17,000.

JAPS HAD U. S. DEGREES

SAN DIEGO, Cal.—(U.P.)—Chaplain Kenneth Stack of the army's 11th Bombardment squadron, back from Guadalcanal, said the most surprising thing with the Japanese prisoners was the number who spoke excellent English. But the most distinguishing fact about them was the number who had degrees from California schools. He believed there was a higher rate of degrees among the Japanese than among the American enlisted men.

YOUNGSTOWN, O.—(INS)— It's an ill wind, they say, that blows nobody good, and even wartime food shortages are lucky for somebody.

Towel laundrymen at a convention here said they aren't having so much trouble with stains caused by tomato juice, chili sauce, cranberry sauce and other now-rare foods.

But there's one thing the laundrymen complain the war hasn't changed: Women still wipe their lipstick on towels and napkins.

HEALTH QUIZ

	YES	NO
Do you have poor digestion?	☐	☐
Do you feel headachy after eating?	☐	☐
Do you get sour or upset easily?	☐	☐
Do you feel tired—listless?	☐	☐

Now everyone knows that to get the good out of the food you eat—you must digest it properly. But what most people don't know is that Nature must produce about two pints of the digestive juice—liver bile—each day to help digest your food. If Nature fails—your food may remain undigested—lie sour and heavy in your digestive tract.

Thus, it is simple to see that one way to aid digestion is to increase the flow of liver bile. Now, Carter's Little Liver Pills start to increase this flow quickly for thousands—often in as little as thirty minutes. When bile flow increases, your digestion may improve. And, soon you're on the road to feeling better—which is what you're after.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's aid digestion after Nature's own order, when taken as directed. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today—at any drugstore—only 25¢. You will be glad you did.

Abstract Abstracting

THE PRESIDENTIAL BOOM that started for Gov. John W. Bricker has experienced a number of ups and downs of late, with the governor's own pronouncements causing the downs where the efforts of some magazine writers have sought to create the ups.

For some reason, there were features of the governor's administration which the magazine writers overlooked—such as his futile attempt to misrepresent a constantly growing state surplus.

Other things have happened since then which the people of Ohio and the rest of the nation—all of whom are interested in their presidential candidates—will not overlook.

One is the governor's attacks on Washington bureaucracy and reckless spending, while his own state highway department became the most costly in the history of Ohio.

Two others, even more recent, also involve the state highway department.

One was the revelation in Cuyahoga county that highway department employes were also holding political jobs, which was against the law. After asserting that there was nothing irregular in the Cuyahoga county department, the Bricker administration was then confronted with the fact that the men in question had resigned their political jobs.

Now in the past week another situation has developed. The state highway department sought abstracts of title to 185 pieces of real estate along the right-of-way to a war plant at the Cleveland airport.

It developed that instead of employing an abstract company to do the work—in which abstract companies specialize—it gave the job to a Cuyahoga county attorney.

The attorney got an abstract company to do the work for $2,500 and then submitted a bill to the state highway department for $5,780, which would have meant a profit of $3,280 to the attorney.

The state auditor's office looked into the matter, and the attorney then cut his bill to $4,675. But the state auditor's office has refused to pay it.

The "truckless trucking" contract that helped to defeat Martin L. Davey seems to have nothing on this situation in the Bricker administration.

Let's Not Slow Up

BY RAISING $400,000 more than the $6,050,000 quota for the Third War Loan drive, Richland county rang the bell again in a major war task for the home front, but ringing the bell is no signal to stop.

The campaign leadership and its workers are to be commended for their successful efforts. So are the 10,565 individuals and corporations who subscribed. But there are still others—many others—who have assumed a "let the other fellow do it" attitude and have done nothing.

The "do nothings" have until Oct. 15 to "do something." The treasury department has ordered that all war bond sales made until mid-October shall be credited to the communities in which the bonds are purchased. The extra time was permitted because Federal Reserve banks require that much time to clear bonds purchased in the Third War loan.

Richland county has done an excellent job. Let's make it a better one!

The Business of Spelling

THE editor of a metropolitan Ohio paper, in a column he conducts himself, calls on the country's youth to devote much energy to the business of learning to spell, just as this newspaper has done at intervals.

Our columning friend confesses that there are words with which he even now has trouble—and points out that the necessity of stopping to puzzle over the correct spelling of a word is not only embarrassing but also time-wasting.

He lists a few of some 30 that bother him—Philippines, for one. The natural way for him to spell would be Phillipines, and he admits that in the early days of the war it got into the paper that way often enough to be face-reddening.

There are spellers and spellers, just as there are writers and writers. To some, spelling comes easily; to some with difficulty. But spelling can be learned.

And goodness knows, with all the new words that are coming into usage these days, born of advances in science and in the throes of war, the value of the ability to spell shouldn't be underestimated.

To be able to spell words is measurably an ability to use them. And it would be refreshing if more of us really learned how to use words, reversing the trend to keep vocabularies at a minimum and chew up the words we do use.

No one holds, we suppose, that the current spelling of English language words is logical. But we're so busy with other things right now, that the prospect of getting spelling simplified is a long way off.

So we'll have to spell them the way they are, so we should learn!

Pent-up Demand

THREE million six hundred seventy-five thousand families intend to buy automobiles to cost $3,307,500,000 when the war is over. Household appliance purchases will be $1,215,910,000. Overall home-furnishings purchase intentions are $711,410,000. One million five hundred and forty thousand families intend to build or buy a new home within six months.

These figures come from a new survey which shows that postwar purchases of the American public will be far in excess of those estimated last December in a similar survey.

This is encouraging not only because the rise shows that people seem to have been saving their war wages instead of squandering them and contributing to inflation; it is heartening because this pent-up demand means industrial activity, and that means jobs.

Industry now has a pretty good idea of the postwar picture. It is making postwar plans—practical postwar plans. All it needs now is some assurance that controls will be lifted gradually after the war, so that it can forge ahead on its postwar job-giving backlog of orders.

The Russian capture of Stalino has confused a good many people who remember last year's successful defense of Stalingrad, and wonder if the two towns can be the same. In their turn the Russians might find it hard to distinguish Portland, Me., from Portland, Ore. And there are the various Springfields.

Status of 'Surrendered' Italy Poses New Problem for Allies

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

PREMIER BADOGLIO'S seeming desire to bring his Italian government in on the side of the United Nations as an ally is causing some resentment among American and British soldiers as well as on the part of officers of the AMG (Allied Military Government of Occupied Territories).

"It wouldn't be surprising," reports Edward Kennedy, Associated Press war correspondent in Italy, "if Premier Badoglio issued a declaration of war on Germany as a means of getting into the winning camp and salvaging something in the post-war settlement.

"The idea of accepting the Italians as 'allies' however, is repugnant to many of the troops, who thought they had defeated the Italains once and for all and now find it strange to have Italians in charge of civil administration here and issuing decrees which indirectly affect the Allied forces. Officers of the AMG who came here to administer the country have found their organization sidetracked while Italians control the civil power, and they are resentful of the situation."

Well, it's easy to understand that feeling. Maybe, too, it's a good thing this has cropped up now, because we are going to have other defeated countries to deal with before long and it's important that we adjust our minds to the common-sense way of handling these situations.

Take the case of Italy:

The Allied objectives have called for unconditional surrender, wiping out of Fascism, punishment of Mussolini and his gang, disarmament, depriving Italy of her illgot empire and returning its component parts to rightful sovereignty, military occupation of Italy and AMG administration until such time as the people can choose a legitimate government of their own. We swore to do all this with firmness, and there's no indication we've weakened.

British Premier Churchill last week gave us a significant glimpse of Allied determination to rid the world of gangsterism when he told with grim brevity how it happened that Nazi parachutists were able to rescue Mussolini. The Italian Carabinieri who were guarding the ex-dictator failed to carry out their orders to shoot him if any delivery were attempted. That's to say, the Duce was to be executed on the spot if there was danger of his escaping Allied justice.

We shall get him again, just as we shall get Hitler and Tojo—dead or alive—and all their henchmen. Then punishment will be exacted, and it won't be tea and cakes.

What we have to remember about Italy, however, before we get indignant over the trend of affairs, is that while the government capitulated, this didn't end the war on the peninsula by a long shot. We still have to wrest the country from the Germans.

In these circumstances one would expect the occupied portions to continue under military rule, thereby perhaps delaying the establishment of AMG. It isn't surprising either that the Allies are encouraging the Italians to fight the Germans. That doesn't mean the Italians are being invited to become our allies; they're being invited to help themselves. They still must take their punishment.

However, when we have dealt with Musso — imprisoned him, hanged him, or compelled him to listen continually to phonograph records of his own bombastic speeches, as a colleague of mine suggests—and when we have carried out the other announced Allied aims, how much further would the average American want to go in the way of retribution? Not a great way, I'll gamble.

The Allied leaders have made it clear that there's no intention of crushing the Italian people but, on the contrary, of helping them get a fresh start. It strikes me as highly important that this be emphasized, and certainly that we don't allow ourselves to be sent off on some emotional tangent.

We've got to be tough, but we don't have to try to be tougher than we are by nature. Other Axis nations are watching Italy. No country will surrender if it believes it's going to be enslaved, as the people of Germany, for example, are being told by Hitler and Goebbels. Anyway, all arguments notwithstanding, we'll probably be smart to let the very capable General Ike Eisenhower have a fling at running his own job.

Dave Boone Says:

WHAT a howl is now going up over the fuel situation for the coming winter! The patriotic folks who obeyed orders to convert from oil burners to coal, last winter, are behind the eight ball, while the chiselers and the boys who always brush off Washington are okay.

John L. Lewis and the long dilly-dallying with him in the coal strike did it. It is actually easier to get oil in most cases than coal, and you can't blame folks for getting sore.

But some way should be found to see that the people who played fair with the fuel administration get fair play in return. If those who didn't do any chiseling are left out on a limb it will be hard for Uncle Sam to get prompt obedience in a future crisis.

My heart goes out to the fellow who had his oil burner dismantled without giving his country any argument, and now calls up his coal dealer and gets only his deep regrets.

State Department Ban on Foreign Marriages of Diplomats a Handicap

(This is the fourth of Drew Pearson's columns on the State Department, the government agency now most in the spotlight of the nation.)

WASHINGTON—John Hubner, the young diplomat who saved the Queen Mary with around 10,000 American troops on board, has just resigned. His resignation illustrates one of the fundamental problems in keeping an alert American diplomatic service—marriage to foreign women.

In this case Hubner is marrying the niece of the Archbishop of Sao Paulo in Brazil. To do so the state department has told him he must resign.

This means the loss of a man with many years experience, also one who proved himself especially quick-witted in a major emergency.

More than a year ago, the Nazi radio announced that the Queen Mary, crammed with U. S. troops, was sunk off Brazil. From the War department came complete silence. In order not to play into Nazi hands, no word of explanation was given as to what actually had happened to the Queen Mary. There was a good reason for this. Here is what happened.

Plot Against Queen Mary.

Up in Sao Paulo, central state of Brazil, the State department's John Hubner had discovered that a large radio transmitter had been imported by the German firm of Siemens and company, and was being held for delivery to a purchaser. The address of that purchaser was phony and probably the name also.

So Hubner had the efficient Brazilian police watch the Siemens store night and day to see who might take delivery of the radio transmitter. Finally, one evening at 6:45, just before the store closed, a German picked up the radio transmitter. He was immediately arrested, subjected to stiff cross-examination, and after many hours finally broke down. He disclosed the names of his confederates, together with the location of a Nazi radio station in the hills above Rio de Janeiro.

Hubner, working with the cooperative Brazilian police, immediately rounded up the gang, and flew to Rio where the radio station was seized—just as it was sending out a message to Nazi subs regarding the sailing of the Queen Mary.

It had been a perfect Nazi trap. The Queen Mary had put in at Rio for fuel and supplies. She was too big to hide. Nazi agents in Rio learned her sailing time, discovered her route and flashed this to lurking U-boats.

So sure was Berlin of this setup, that it actually announced the sinking of the Queen Mary to the world.

What the Nazis did not know was that Hubner and the Brazilian police had seized their radio station, and that the course of the Queen Mary immediately was changed.

Last month Hubner asked the State department for permission to marry a Brazilian girl. His request was refused. He resigned.

Too Many Foreign Wives.

Several years ago Bill Bullitt, then ambassador to Moscow, sat down to dinner in his embassy. Around the table were his staff with their wives, supposed to mingle and make friends with the Russians. They included:

(1) Counselor John C. Wiley, whose wife is Polish and hates the Russians; (2) First secretary Loy Henderson, whose wife is Latvian and hates the Russians; (3) Third secretary George Kennon, whose wife is Norwegian and hates the Russians; and (4) Attache Angus Ward, whose wife is Finnish and hates the Russians.

After dinner, Bullitt got up and cabled the president that American diplomats should not be permitted to marry other than American wives. In this, he was 95 per cent right. For years American diplomacy has been warped and weakened by the fact that U. S. diplomats married foreign wives.

Today, for instance Ambassador Norman Armour, one of the ablest and most fair-minded of U. S. envoys, probably is barred as undersecretary of state because he married a White Russian, Princess Myra Koudacheff. Actually, this would never affect Armour in his relations with Russia, but in the last three weeks, ever since the publicity given to Russian policies, the State department is bending over backward to avoid any appearance of being anti-Russian.

On the other side of the picture, however, young U. S. diplomats are not given enough time in their own country to get acquainted with American girls. They can't make love, propose, and persuade their fiancees to desert their parents for an unknown foreign country, all in a three-week visit. And they don't get home more than once every four years—unless they are among the wealthy inside the state department who can afford it.

Therefore, one fundamental need in American diplomacy is to let young diplomats come home every so often for a period of a year during which they not only can mix with American youth of their own age, but also can get out in the Middle West, which really dominates the foreign policy of the United States, and see what the people are talking and thinking about (Until a few years ago every top executive in the State department was picked from east of the Allegheny mountains.)

Also the marriage ban might be relaxed somewhat, especially regarding wives from Pan American countries where the Good Neighbor policy is important, and where marital union with a leading family may actually help a U. S. diplomat.

Hull Vs. Lehman.

Meanwhile, the question of personnel, which actually is the root problem inside the State department, has bobbed up in another revealing manner. Secretary Hull has refused to permit ex-Gov. Lehman of New York to appoint the personnel he wants for his foreign relief administration. Specifically he has banned Morris Rosenthal, prominent New York import-export man, a chief executive of the old Board of Economic Warfare.

Gov. Lehman, rated as one of the best executives New York ever had feels that he knows how to pick men, perhaps knows more about personnel than Secretary Hull. Also he feels that as long as he keeps in line with State department policy, the details of managing his office should be left to him.

At this writing, however, Hull continues adamant against Rosenthal's appointment. Rosenthal, recognized by Washington as a top-notch executive, was friendly to Vice President Wallace, who refused recently to let Hull censor his speech on post-war peace made in Chicago.

Three Stories Picked Up In New Orleans As Reporter Stops There on Way Around Country.

NEW ORLEANS—Three little scenes in New Orleans:

* * * * *

A French restaurant, far back in the Vieux Carre (Old Quarter.) Tourists don't go there. There's no reason why anybody should, for that matter, because it isn't a very good restaurant, and there's no "atmosphere," and the food is just so-so. But you get an awful lot of it for a quarter.

You have ordered black coffee. Finally a startled-looking waiter arrives with it. He sets it down. He looks at the coffee, and then at you, and you look at him and his mouth opens and he stands there like that, and finally he says:

"Why, I put milk in it."

That's what has happened. He put milk in it.

So he tries again, and this time he comes back and sets the cup down, and looks at you, and then at the coffee, and then at you, and he seems to become sort of frightened at himself, and paralyzed, and finally picks up the cup and starts back with it, and says, "I guess I'll have to drink it myself." He has put milk in it again.

You'll think it's a lie, but it isn't: He had milk in it when he came back the third time. He never said a word that time. Just set it down, looked at it, picked it up and started back again, as if he knew all the time he would find milk in it when he looked.

He made it on the fourth trip. But it was a demi-tasse. He began explaining ten feet away.

"I've only got a half cup. I'm sorry but this is all the coffee there is. I used it all up making that damn coffee and milk."

HIGH above the altar in the Church of the Immaculate Conception on Baronne street she stands. The white marble virgin. Two circles of light behind her. At her feet three silver candlesticks, fancifully moulded, with deer, and little boys, and birds in trees. Very, very old candlesticks.

Men and women of New Orleans kneel in silence and cross themselves. Very few of them know the stories of the virgin, and the candlesticks. They are two separate stories:

The virgin was sculptured by craftsmen of Lyons for Empress Marie Louise, wife of Napoleon. On her shoulder appeared a little black spot, one of those streaks that sometimes show up in marble.

Marie Louise, Empress, would have no virgin with a black spot. Any virgin for Marie Louise must be as white as snow. She refused her.

So the pious women of New Orleans chipped in and bought the lovely figure, brought her over the ocean, and there she is today, high above the altar, black spot and all.

And the candlesticks—no one knows how old they are. Not even Brother Peter, who has been the sacritism for 50 years. But he knows something that happened to them once.

It was during the war between the states. Northern troops were in New Orleans. There was looting. Two officers came into the church, and carried off the candlesticks.

The Jesuit priest saw them, and followed. He trailed them to their barracks. Then he hotfooted it for the headquarters of Gen. Benjamin Butler, commanding the boys in blue.

"Is it the practice of the North to loot the altar of the House of God when they make war?" he demanded. Said General Butler: "What the hell are you talking about?"

So the priest told him what the hell he was talking about, and General Butler swore a very large oath, and ordered the two officers before him. "Sure we took them," they said. "Everybody is taking things."

So General Butler ordered them to their best uniforms. And with an armed guard they carried those candlesticks down the main street back into the church, and apologized to the priest. And there they are, today.

* * *

AN OLD, old house in the Vieux Carre, behind the ancient Cathedral of St. Louis.

In this house an old lady died the other day. A very old lady, a Creole of sentiment and strong blood and tenderness for the little things she loved.

She died at 98. She was born there, she died there, and only three nights of her entire 98 years had she slept outside of that house. She always listened for the lovely soft bells of the Cathedral of St. Louis. She had never married.

The night she died, two friends called to commiserate with her brother, who lived with her. They offered restrained, sad words.

The old man put his arms around the two of them. He was not sad.

"Do not grieve, my dear friends," he said. "Her death was a beautiful death."

"How can death ever be beautiful?"

"Let me tell you," he said. "At 5 minutes till 9 she called to me. 'Francois,' she said. 'Francois, pour me a little glass of brandy.'

"So I got a bottle of brandy 48 years old, and I poured her a glass, and put one arm behind her and lifted her up, and held it for her, and she sipped it in slow sips, and rested a little between sips.

"And then at 9, the cathedral bells began ringing, and she sat up with my arm around her and listened to the bells, and just as they stopped, she smiled and lay back down and she was dead.

"My dear good friends, how could anything be more beautiful than that? With the taste of good brandy in her mouth, and the sound of the bells in her ears, and a smile on her face . . . is that not beautiful?"

A Farmer's Diary

By CALVIN A. BYERS

Bird Feud

THE little house wrens appear as innocent and domestic as any birds about our lawn. Last spring a pair built their nest in a tiny opening by the porch. A pair of bluebirds came in early May and chose the round tin mailbox on our electric light post. They started a nest and were enthusiastic for a while, then their interest dwindled.

I went up and looked inside. Two eggs were half way in, well protected from rain and wind by the metal cylinder. Two days later I looked again. There were no more. The mother bluebird seemed disheartened. No clear sweet warbles came from the bluebird couple now.

Finally when no more eggs were laid, I reached within and lifted out the two. They were light. Mere shells. A tiny hole was in the side of each. The dry grass and sticks where they had laid were damp. I put the shells back, and went away, wondering what had happened.

Next time I passed, I noticed that the empty shells had been thrown out upon the ground at the base of the pole. I stooped to touch one brittle piece and it crumbled to grayish dust.

This week, in my reading, I came upon news of a permanent feud between wrens and bluebirds. An observer had seen a mother wren fly into a bluebirds domain when the mother bluebird flew away. Cleverly she punctured the eggs with her beak and rolled them over to drain. Again, a day later, she returned and rolled the eggshells out upon the grass.

"So that was it!" I thought. Those pert house wrens and the bluebird family do not live well in the same neighborhood. The wrens are the aggressors, even though smaller. They persecute by stealth and discourage the poor bluebirds until they move to a distant point to try their luck again.

DELAYS ACTION ON PAY AGAIN

Council Unable To Agree on Wage Increase; Plan New Conference.

Still unable to reach an agreement on the amount of pay increases that can be granted city employes, city council again last night postponed action on the workers' request for more money.

In caucus more than three hours at the city building, the nine councilmen agreed that raises should be granted but couldn't decide on an amount that "would be fair to everybody," said C. N. Shultz, chairman of the special committee on salaries.

He said the fact that council had not heard last night how much the airport land is likely to cost had nothing to do with council's failure to agree on a plan for pay raises. The land appraisal figure was turned over to Mayor W. J. Locke today, placing the value at $116,835.

Shultz said he was going to try to get council together again within the next four or five days in another attempt to agree on a pay raise plan so council can act on it at its meeting next Tuesday night.

DISCUSS YOUNG PEOPLE'S CLUB

BUCYRUS — Young people of high school age will be given an opportunity to express their wishes in a movement promoted by the Y. M. C. A. secretary, E. B. Hagaman, to establish a young people's club here at a meeting at the Y Thursday night.

Representatives of all high school organizations have been invited to attend the meeting along with a representative of leading civic clubs, a church representative and several other adults engaged in work with young people.

The movement is aimed at establishing a young people's club similar to that operated and managed by young people at Lima which has met with outstanding success.

Lad Near Death Needs 'AB' Blood ---Can You Help?

the only one of nearly a dozen persons typed by the hospital laboratory who had blood of this rare type. One by one the boy's family filed into the lab only to find they could not help.

William would like to give more blood to the boy lying so still and quiet there in his bed. But the doctors have said "no." Another pint of blood taken from William would endanger his health.

Now the sick boy needs more blood. And where is it to be found? Only 7 to 10 per cent of the entire world population have this type blood.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Militello, think they may have found one more person with AB type blood but they won't be sure until his blood is typed at the hospital laboratory.

This, then, is their plea to any person in Mansfield with type AB blood. They ask them to call the labortory at General hospital as soon as pssible.

Hours count now in the life of little Frank.

Look into Your Heart before you give me your Answer!

MY NAME isn't important. I'm just one of the millions of fellows over here fighting for America. I'd like to speak for these fellows—to you folks back home.

You see, I think I know what's in their minds, because we often talk things over among ourselves. Mostly we talk about home—about the places we came from and the things we plan to do when we get back. Right now, especially, we're thinking a lot about home, for we're in the bloodiest battles of history—and we know that some of us will not come back. Some of us will never see again the ones we love.

But—we've got a job to do and we're going to do it. What I want to say to you folks back home is this: we'd like to think that you are with us in this bitter struggle of invasion. It would help a lot to know that you are really behind us, backing us up 100 per cent. It's going to take a heap of ammunition—and ships and planes, tanks and guns, to beat the Axis. That's what the 3rd War Loan is for; it's for INVASION. Most of us fellows in the service are putting every dollar we can into War Bonds. But you folks back home will have to carry the big load. We've got to depend on you. Don't fail us, will you?

Yes, it's to you this boy is looking in this critical hour. Today America calls upon you to do your part in the 3rd WAR LOAN. And your part is at least one EXTRA $100 War Bond during the drive. AT LEAST $100. That's in addition to your regular War Bond subscriptions. Invest more if you possibly can—some of you must invest thousands in order to reach our national quota. Invest out of your income—invest out of your idle or accumulated funds.

Remember, this money must come from individuals like yourself. Each and every one must do his share.

Let's do it the American way—willingly, gladly. Do it with the knowledge that you are putting your money into the safest investment in the world—to be paid back with interest by your government.

Sacrifice today—you will be richer for it tomorrow. Back the invasion now—buy at least one extra $100 War Bond in September.

Your Answer is Either "Yes" or "No" in this Roll Call of the Nation—

YES ☐ I will honestly do my best to invest in at least one extra $100 War Bond during the 3rd War Loan Drive. I will lend my Government this money gladly to back up our fighting men.

NO ☐ I am not lending any of my money to my country, I'm spending it. Sure, I know the boys who are fighting for me need support, but let somebody else make the sacrifices.

Your answer will be given in the number of EXTRA War Bonds you invest in during September.

SAFEST INVESTMENTS IN THE WORLD

• United States War Savings Bonds Series "E"; gives you back $4 for every $3 when the bond matures. Interest: 2.9% a year, compounded semi-annually, if held to maturity. Denominations: $25, $50, $100, $500, $1,000. Redemption: Anytime 60 days after issue date. Price: 75% of maturity value.

2½% Treasury Bonds of 1964-1969; readily marketable, acceptable as bank collateral. Redeemable at par and accrued interest for the purpose of satisfying Federal estate taxes. Dated September 15, 1943: due December 15, 1969. Denominations: $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, $100,000 and $1,000,000. Price: par and accrued interest.

Other securities: Series "C" Savings Notes; ⅞% Certificates of Indebtedness; 2% Treasury Bonds of 1951-1953; United States Savings Bonds Series "F"; United States Savings Bonds Series "G".
